MADDO, NIMMU & KAMRAN

LOST FOR WORDS

librio

Dear Kamran,
The first time you
held us, we learned
what true love was.

Dear Maddo and Nimmu,
The first time I held you both,
I knew how it felt to be truly lost for words.

I looked at my little Maddo
and thought, How could someone so
small be so strong?

... and how could
my fragile Nimmu be so loud?

We looked up at our Kamran and thought, How could someone so huge be so gentle?

... and someone so tired be so kind?

... and someone so tired be so kind?

We knew that together, we could find our way through anything.

There were months where we didn't know night from day.

And every moment
was a miracle.

All of that is just a happy blur now.

As we grow bigger,
you teach us how to do
more and more things
all on our own.

Sometimes we do get a bit upset with each other.

But you can’t stay mad at us for long.

We laugh together a lot.
Sometimes till our tummies hurt.

Luckily for me, you think I'm the funniest person
on the planet.

The times when you're sick are the worst.

One day, we'll believe you that the medicine will make us feel better, Kamran.

But not today.

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

You'll be amazed at how many times we can say your name in one day.

KAMRAN!

I know I should cherish every moment, but sometimes it's hard.

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

KAMRAN!

We're always there for each other in the good times.

And whenever we need a cuddle.

Together, we learn about the world.

You make us believe we can be anything we want to be.

If I can teach you anything,
Maddo and Nimmu,
I hope that it is
to be kind and tolerant,
optimistic and adventurous,
loving and honest,
joyful and curious.

With these things,
you will go far.

And then, just like that,
you'll grow up. Faster than
I could ever have imagined.

You totally won't be the funniest person on the planet anymore.

And we'll stay mad at each other for much longer than we should.

You'll tell us that you know better.
But actually, we'll know better,

... until we find out that you knew better all along.

One day, you'll leave and make a home for yourself.

And I'll wish I had cherished every moment more than I did.

But every time you come home, I'll be so proud of who you've become.

And we'll laugh at how we found our way through life together.

We're not the first ones to make this journey, Maddo and Nimmu.

But our path together will be like no other.

Let’s make it the adventure of a lifetime!

From the moment Kamran first held Maddo and Nimmu, a new adventure began—not just for them, but for Kamran too.

Enjoying the good times, enduring the bad times and dealing with the smelly times, "Lost for Words" is a touching expression of love and thanks from Maddo and Nimmu to Kamran and back again.

librio
librio.com